Continuation of the story of the Perfect Master whose disciples are tired of making no apparent progress. Singing, drinking liquor, gramophone records, boat on river bank. Full moon night.

Brit asks how we can obey Baba or know what will please Him?

Standing orders for his lovers: do away with "habit-forming" drugs that give you kicks. Cigarette and alcohol aren't drugs in these terms, but not to excess, have to avoid becoming an alcoholic. Specifically mentioned LSD and marijuana as prohibited. Baba was very emphatic about this, and if they encountered people using them, they should tell them not to do it, and if they continued to do it, Baba's lovers should not associate with them.

Think, speak and act as if in Baba's presence. No formula, but if there should be one, this would be it. Eruch doesn't know if there are any special orders that are there for people in general, "but I tell them that there is no need to search for such orders, because every individual knows what has to be done. In Moses' time every individual would have known what the 10 commandments were, there is no need to dilate on these things, but everyone wants to find a loophole." Gives an example of theft for humanitarian purposes. Honesty is enough. Baba's order is "be honest." Also, "be simple, be lovable."

Years and years ago when Baba was very young, it so happened that a Russian young woman visited him once. She was so sad and miserable that she wept before him, put her head in his lap. Baba said, "What's the matter?" She said, "I am so miserable that I want to commit suicide. Baba said, "Good, now from this moment I bless you. Live as if you have committed suicide..."
