MANI: See the orders. See, how meticulously, minutely, you had to observe His orders. What we call it uphold, hold His orders.

Order means, a word, a wish that comes out, right? This is how it comes out. And we say, that we should not even allow it to fall to the ground. How quickly a word can fall, look at the speed of sound or a speed of thought or the wish.

So when Baba utters a wish or, you have to hold it even before it falls to the ground. And the minutest we learned with Baba that this is not enough, this is not enough, doing this much is not enough. This is not the way to do it.

So for instance, Mehera was told not to read. I could read. Mehera could not read. It does not mean just not reading Rex Stout novels or newspapers or even Baba's books. We were told not to read any spiritual books, all of us, when we came to Baba. We were empty. Not even Baba's things.

Sp anyways, what Mehera could not read it means, supposing, unwittingly she glances by the kitchen shelf and it says, coffee or ovaltine, because we didn't have ovaltine but things like that, whatever that was on the boxes. Well that was breaking an order. So I had to go and stick a paper on those boxes and poor Naja in the kitchen, they never knew what was in which. So they went by the shape and the length, they knew this was coffee and this was masala, anything else. You see, we put masala in these empty tins, tins of Ovaltine or tins of this, when they were emptied we somehow received them, so, but she, we never knew what was in it. To that extent!

But as I say, it may seem difficult know to the listeners, and I know from what we see now, that all this is so alien, so difficult but the time will come when this will not be difficult, where it will be possible for future generations, when you yourselves will be, because you are all the time now coming towards Baba. It will not be so difficult because what Baba worked with has been those who are closely connected for this life, those are the prepared, the matured fruits, as you may say.

But what I say is that this is a model, like a model. Baba works with a few as with a model which will then become universal in time to come. But what we have known will be very natural and normal for all when the time comes for which He has done it.

In the same way Baba has done, even simple things like the electricity or even material things, Baba has started it, in His physical presence in parts that we can see but which is to happen later. Nothing that He has done or has had done can be wasted or not fruitful or not happen.
